

How to get to the Eastern Metropolitan Regional Council

226 Great Eastern Highway, Belmont

The Eastern Metropolitan Regional Council (EMRC) is situated at 226 Great Eastern Highway, Belmont. Great Eastern Highway is a major road connecting Perth with the eastern suburbs.

By choosing active, sustainable travel options you can help the EMRC minimise its environmental footprint and boost your health.

Walk

Why not walk to the EMRC if you live or work close enough? Walking along the Swan River offers a stress free option for getting to and from the EMRC.

Cycle

Replacing your car trips by riding a bicycle is a great way to be active. You can choose convenient and safe routes for cycling using the area map opposite, your Local TravelSmart Guide¹ or Perth Bike Map².

Staff: Bicycle parking is provided inside the shed at the rear entry of the building (PIN code access) with shower facilities nearby.

Visitors: Bicycle parking is located on the right hand side of the building (tall decorative posts).

Carpool and car

Find a colleague and share a ride to the EMRC. If driving is your only option, you can access free parking at the front and side of the building, via Kalgoorlie Street. If travelling from an easterly direction, a U-turn must be performed at the Hardey Road intersection due to the median strip along Great Eastern Highway. On departure, a U-turn is permitted at the Epsom Avenue intersection to continue your journey west.

Disabled access

A parking bay for people with disabilities is located in front of the main entrance of the building. A lift is available to access reception located on the 1st floor.
